

ABSTRACT

An audiovisual device in communication with at least one recording device includes a user input device and a user interface displayed on the audiovisual device. The user interface includes a first window associated with a source of audiovisual programming and a second window associated with the recording device.